

“OMG” “I said in a small little voice.” I had expected a lovely and clean house with a massive bedroom and new British tea but No. The bedroom looked like it was from decades ago. There was an old bed and a tiny room with cables all over. There were old and rusty boarders blocking the windows. I had one key but didn’t know what to do with it.